Tyrus Raymond Cobb, premier batsman of the world, and Grantland Rice, not only an authority on baseball, but unquestionably the most picturesque writer on baseball topics in the United States, augmented by the complete and exhaustive reports of the Associated Press will cover the World's Series, the first game of which begins in New York to-day at 2 o'clock, for The Times-Dispatch. Each of these features will be exclusive to The Times-Dispatch, and no one interested in the series can be well informed unless reading the reports of Cobb's name is a household word. His reports of the games which appeared in The Times-Dispatch last year were regarded the last word in expert baseball analysis. Grantland Rice is equally well known to the baseball loving public. He has a style all his own, a style which, by the way, has made his offerings in demand by the leading newspapers in the United States. The accuracy, completeness and entertaining style of the Associated Press writers needs no comment.

In addition to these features, The Times-Dispatch's electric scoreboard, manned by expert operators, will tell the story of each game, play by play, just as they happen either in New York or Boston. The board has been placed on the Bank Street side of The Times-Dispatch Building, so that the thousands interested may have a full and fair view of the games.
